I. GENERAL

ma•chis•mo: \mä-'chēz-mō\ (Spanish, n.), an attitude, quality or way of behaving that agrees with traditional ideas about men being very strong and aggressive.

After establishing several theoretical parameters to discuss contemporary marginal masculinities, the course examines products of popular culture (film, music, television) to provide exemplars in both Mexico and Russia. First in the 1990s, and then in the 2000s, each cultural text illustrates and interrogates the performances of masculinity for popular consumption. Comparisons of film, television, and musical performance from both periods and in both cultures demonstrate the affinities between Russian and Mexican portrayals of the New Macho.

The course suggests connections between the violent social and political environments of Russia and Mexico during the 1990s that may have led to the original depiction of urban, middle-class men in popular culture as hyper-masculine, often violent and emotionless, images of machismo. By the 2000s, however, in spite of the continuation of violence and/or corruption in both countries, popular culture offered Russians and Mexicans both a respite from the exclusively violent images of macho men portrayed in real life situations, as well as an alternative masculinity: a feminized macho that, while no less attractive and strong, presents men as capable of feeling and displaying emotion and preferring the company of another person to living a solitary life in isolation.

The course is conducted in English with all source material that is in Russian and Spanish subtitled in English. No knowledge of Russian or Spanish is required, though readings in both languages are available for majors and minors in these related fields from the instructor on request.

II. COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Attendance and Participation: You are expected to attend class meetings regularly, participate actively in discussions, do all assigned readings and film viewings, and prepare written assignments. HOWEVER, regular attendance alone does not fulfill the participation portion of this requirement. Critical analysis, synthesis and cogent argumentation are essential to the success of the course; precise articulation – orally and in writing -- of your understanding of the texts we consider this term is essential to your own success. [REE or MAS/MAL majors in this course are encouraged to work with a substantial portion of the texts in the original Russian and/or Spanish.]

Response Paper: Each participant will submit a brief response paper (5 pages) to one of a series of statements taken directly from the course material presented in class. The paper will be due on Thursday, October 1.

Reflection Paper: A short (5 pages) essay on a pre-assigned topic, or one approved by the instructor, involving at least two of the texts covered in the course. This essay is to be handed in on Thursday, November 5.

Course Project: Class participants, working in groups of three, are required to present in the last two weeks of class, a ten (10) minute exciting and provocative treatment of any of the filmic, musical, print, or other texts covered during the semester, or a text chosen by the participants not on the syllabus with the approval of the instructor. Focusing on defining “The New Machismo,” sample treatments will be suggested and discussed well in advance of the due date. Groups are required to communicate with the instructor about the treatments well in advance of the due date, as well as to turn in a brief, one paragraph prospectus justifying the choice of text(s) before beginning the course project.

Special Accommodations: Any student with disabilities may request appropriate academic accommodations from the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement, Services for Students with Disabilities at 471-6259. Any necessary accommodations should be presented to the instructor in written form from the SSD at the beginning of the course, unless the need for special accommodations becomes necessary during the course.

III. GRADING

There are four components of the final course grade. These components and their relative weights are:

Reflection Paper (5 pp.)	20%
Response Paper (5 pp.)	20%
Course Project	40%
Active enthusiastic participation	20%

All grades for this course will be assigned using the plus/minus system based on the UT Registrar's scale and posted in a timely manner on the class Canvas site:

94 – 100	=	A	74 – 76	=	C
90 – 93	=	A-	70 – 73	=	C-
87 – 89	=	B+	67 – 69	=	D+
84 – 86	=	B	64 – 66	=	D
80 – 83	=	B-	60 – 63	=	D-
77 – 79	=	C+	59 or less	=	F

For assistance with the writing assignments in the course, in addition to working with me, your instructor, I strongly encourage you to use the University Writing Center, PCL 2.330, 471-6222, uwc.utexas.edu). The University Writing Center offers free, individualized help with writing for any UT undergraduate, by appointment or on a drop-in basis. They work with students from every department on campus, for both academic and non-academic writing. This service is not just for writing with "problems." Getting feedback from an informed audience is a normal part of a successful writing project. The UWC consultants are trained to work with you on your writing in ways that preserve the integrity of your work and help you become a stronger, more independent writer.

IV. UT HONOR CODE

The University of Texas Honor Codes reads:

"The core values of The University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity and responsibility. Each member of the university is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness and respect toward peers and community."

Each class participant is expected to adhere to these principles throughout the course, in interacting with the course instructor, TAs, fellow students, and in completing all written assignments for the course. Your instructor and TA will do the same.

V. EMERGENCY PROCEDURES

Occupants of buildings on The University of Texas at Austin campus are required to evacuate buildings when an alarm is activated. Alarm activation or announcement requires exiting and assembling outside. Familiarize yourself with all exit doors of each classroom and building you may occupy. Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when entering the building. Students requiring assistance in evacuation shall inform their instructor in writing during the first week of class. In the event of an evacuation, follow the instruction of faculty or class instructors. Do not re-enter a building unless given instructions by the following: The University of Texas at Austin Police Department, or Fire Prevention Services office.
