Course Overview
This class is an overview of the business of media content focused on past, present and emerging practices from the perspectives of the major motion picture studios, streamers, television and independent productions concentrating on the practical, legal, business, strategic, financial, economic and business models – “follow the money” - that drive show business. The class will also include exposure to the critical practical expertise required to satisfy the multi-faceted demands of producing content in the ever-changing media landscape. In addition, the disrupting influence of technological advances, changing consumer habits and the rise of international will be analyzed as well as the tensions between content/distribution, business/creative, and risk/reward, to name but a few paradigms, that are at the core of understanding the eternal beating heart of the entertainment industry.

The class is structured in four ‘alternating’ sequences; the studio world, the chronology of getting to production; the indie and tv worlds; and, finally, the practicalities of production. Information will be presented in class from your instructor, handouts, reading assignments and industry professionals.

Learning Objectives
1. Identify, understand, manage and present critical legal, business, and practical issues with respect to development, packaging, production financing, production, physical production, and post production
2. Analyze the cost and revenue structures in the independent entertainment industry
3. Analyze the cost and revenue structures for the major motion picture studios
4. Monitor emerging disruption factors, critical issues and concepts and future trends within the entertainment industry
5. Identify recurring paradigms, business models, and the role of technology in entertainment
6. Create and present a business plan for a selected project within the entertainment industry

Assignments
Per the Canvas syllabus dates you can instantly access, you will find written assignments are due to be posted onto Canvas no later than midnight the day before the next class session (for example, the Class Assignment which is based on material covered in the previous class is due to be submitted to Canvas no later than midnight on the Sunday immediately before the next Class). Please do not submit printed material unless requested. Make sure your name appears on the title of the document and the calendar date of the assignment on the paper itself. Extensions will be difficult to come by. However, if extenuating circumstances arise, like a death in the family or your own illness, please notify me via text or via inbox in Canvas before the deadline so that the matter may be discussed.

Special Guest Speakers
Industry professionals will be scheduled to offer their insights and personal experiences. Owing to unpredictable schedules, there may be last minute changes which will be communicated to all students via Canvas. You will be expected to research the speakers, companies, and their work ahead of time to ask them questions. This is a unique opportunity for you to speak directly with professionals. These visits are highly valuable and you will be expected to participate in the Q&A for each speaker.

It will be a CLASS ASSIGNMENT automatically due after each Guest Speaker's class to write a brief summary of insights (minimum 1 page per speaker) of what you learned from that Guest Speaker and post that to Canvas in advance of the class the following week.

Absences/Tardy
See above in “Assignments.” If you have a legitimate scheduling problem (this does NOT include business lunches, family visits or screenings!) please contact me prior to class via inbox in Canvas, text, or a phone call to my cellphone. Unexcused absence from more than one (1) class will result in a deduction of up to 5 points from your overall grade for each individual absence. Likewise, being tardy or leaving early after the first such instance, will also, at my discretion, result in the deduction of overall grade points up to the same level as an absence. At NO time may your internship be used as an excuse for being late or missing class.

Required Texts
The Biz by Schuyler M. Moore, 5th Edition. In addition, there are often required readings that will be made available via Canvas. Canvas should be checked on a regular basis so that you are up-to-date with required readings.

Services for Students with Disabilities
Students with a documented disability may request appropriate academic accommodations from the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement, Services for Students with Disabilities, 512-471-6259 (voice) or 512-410-6644 (video phone).
Please inform me before CLASS #3 if you have a physical, learning, sensory, or psychological disability and need accommodation to take part in or to complete the required work for this course.

University Email Notification Policy: All students should become familiar with the University’s official email student notification policy. It is the student’s responsibility to keep the University informed as to changes in his or her email address on inbox at Canvas. Students are expected to check their inbox on Canvas on a frequent and regular basis in order to stay current with University-related communications, recognizing that certain communications may be time-critical. It is recommended that the inbox on Canvas be checked daily, but at a minimum, twice per week. The complete text of this policy and instructions for updating your inbox at Canvas address are available at https://cio.utexas.edu/policies/university-electronic-mail-student-notification-policy.

In this course, inbox within Canvas will be exclusively used as a the written means of communication with students. You will be responsible for checking your inbox within Canvas regularly for class work and announcements.

Religious Holidays: Religious holy days sometimes conflict with class and examination schedules. If you miss an assignment or other project due to the observance of a religious holy day you will be given an opportunity to complete the work missed within a reasonable time after the absence. It is the policy of the University of Texas at Austin that you must notify your instructor at least fourteen days prior to the classes scheduled on dates you will be absent to observe a religious holy day.

The University of Texas Honor Code: The core values of The University of Texas at Austin are learning, discovery, freedom, leadership, individual opportunity, and responsibility. Each member of the University is expected to uphold these values through integrity, honesty, trust, fairness, and respect toward peers and community.

Scholastic Dishonesty: The University defines academic dishonesty as cheating, plagiarism, unauthorized collaboration, falsifying academic records, and any act designed to avoid participating honestly in the learning process. Scholastic dishonesty also includes, but is not limited to, providing false or misleading information to receive a postponement or an extension on a test, quiz, or other assignment, and submission of essentially the same written assignment for two courses without the prior permission of the instructor. By accepting this syllabus, you have agreed to these guidelines and must adhere to them. Scholastic dishonesty damages both the student’s learning experience and readiness for the future demands of a work-career. Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. More information on student conduct and academic integrity is available at http://deanofstudents.utexas.edu/conduct/academicintegrity.php.
